Our Story

Schacht Spindle Company, Inc. was founded during the back-to-earth movement of the late 1960s and its accompanying craft resurgence. Barry Schacht, along with his brother Dan, started the business when a friend wanted to learn to spin. They'd heard about Greentree Ranch in Loveland, Colorado, where people raised sheep and taught spinning. One day they hopped in their van with friends and dogs and drove up to the ranch. Not only did they get a quick lesson in the art of the drop spindle, they also came home with a commission to make 200 of them.

When Barry and Dan delivered the spindles to the Greens, they were delighted, especially with the little green tree hand-painted on each one. Louise Green, who was just starting to weave, suggested the brothers make a simple loom. "What's a loom?" they asked.

In the beginning, Barry and Dan designed simple looms and accessories using one of the university's woodworking shops. In 1985, the brothers built a factory in Boulder. Today, we build our looms in a 35,000-square-foot factory with nearly 50 employees, and are one of the world's leading makers of handweaving looms and spinning wheels.

It's been pleasurable and challenging to learn how closely our products tie in with the craftsman's work. We realize that the quality of their work depends on the quality of our tools. Our purpose every day is to make tools for the crafts we love.

—Barry Schacht and Jane Patrick
